Use of cookies

Cookies are small text files that are placed on your computer by websites that you visit. They are widely used in order to make websites work, or work more efficiently, as well as to provide information to the owners of the site.

This website does not require cookies in order to function properly. The information below explains the cookies we use and why.

Cookie	Used For
Cookie Bar (cb-enabled)	This is used to remember whether you have clicked the button to acknowledge our use of cookies. Without this, the bar would always show.
Social Media Sharing Facebook, Twitter, YouTube, Google, AddThis	We include Facebook and Twitter plugins on this website to help you share content that may be of interest to your social network. We also use AddThis, which is a service allowing social media sharing with a range of alternatives to Facebook and Twitter. Some pages may also include Google or YouTube features which need cookies in order to work, improve service and prevent fraud. Note that Social Media companies usually design cookies in a way that enable them to track your activity across multiple websites and this may be a reason you choose to disable cookies. See How does Facebook use cookies See AddThis Privacy and Data Practices See Twitter Privacy Policy See Google Privacy Policy (includes YouTube)

Taking Control of Your Cookies

You have the ability to accept or decline cookies by modifying the settings in your browser, however you may not be able to use all the interactive features of our site if cookies are disabled. To find out more about cookies, including how to see what cookies have been set and how to manage and delete them, visit www.aboutcookies.org.